GENERAL PURPOSE: To set forth policies for the administration of implied consent breath alcohol tests.

POLICY: The Division will establish guidelines for the request of an implied consent breath alcohol test.

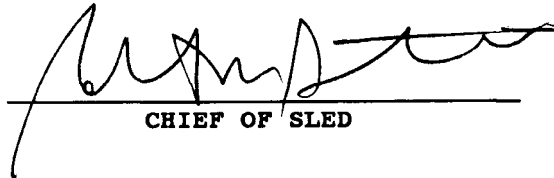

SPECIFIC PROCEDURES: Any arresting and/or primary investigating officer may direct that a subject under arrest and/or detained for DUI, Felony DUI, BUI, FUI, CDL, and/or zero tolerance violations submit to an implied consent test. Any officer (if a certified operator), including the arresting and/or primary investigating officer, may administer the breath test for DUI, Felony DUI, CDL, and/or zero tolerance violations if the observation period is videotaped. The arresting officer may not administer the breath test for BUI or FUI violations under any circumstances.

If an implied consent test for a DUI, Felony DUI, BUI, CDL, and/or zero tolerance violation is to be offered to a subject, a physically able subject must first be offered a breath test to determine his/her alcohol concentration. If a subject is physically unable to provide an acceptable breath sample, if he/she has an injured mouth, is unconscious, or dead, a blood sample may be taken. Also, if any other reason is medically established, acceptable to licensed medical personnel, that a person is unable to provide an acceptable breath sample, a blood sample may be taken. If the officer has reasonable grounds to believe that the person is under the influence of drugs other than alcohol, the officer may order that a urine sample be taken for testing.

Any person who has been transported to a licensed medical facility for medical treatment and who has been involved in a DUI, Felony DUI, BUI, CDL, and/or zero tolerance violation, may be given a blood test. If, in this case, a test should be performed, a blood test should be administered due to the time element involved.

SLED approved methods do not require that the breath test must be administered within any particular time period after the arrest. The test should be administered as soon as practicable without undue delay.
